new to canada

The posh environs of Toronto's Yonge and Summerhill area are swankier with the addition of Kreiss, San Diego-based furniture maker to stars like Patrick Dempsey and Julia Roberts. Located in the old HorseFeathersHome digs, Kreiss carries timeless upscale living, dining, bedroom and outdoor furniture. Another fab American import: design director Shai DeLuca (top right), an interior designer and Canadian expat recruited from NYC to helm the 70-year-old company's first foray into this country.

design service

"We offer a full design service – and if you're purchasing furniture worth $15,000 or more, the service is free," says Shai. A tidy sum indeed, but if you love Kreiss's aesthetic and are outfitting several rooms, you won't need to hire a designer. We could rack that up in a flash, with the klismos-style Ares chairs in walnut and suede, $2,360 each, the Libra shellstone-and-iron coffee table, $3,295, and the huge round Gatsby shagreen-frame mirror, $3,295.

the agassi graf collection

Retired married tennis legends Andre Agassi and Steffi Graf have a very comely collection – and we're not just saying that because we're tennis fans! Showroom standouts: the modular sectional in woven leather and chenille (including a tennis ball cushion – so cute!), from $3,062 for an armless chair to $6,046 for a corner loveseat, and the Vicenza sandstone coffee table, $4,785. ▶
